Re: Mr. Edgar Vaudeville application for O-1 Visa

Dear Sir / Madam;

My name is Michael Edelstein and I am writing in support of Edgar Vaudeville's O visa application to work in the United States of America.

I am currently the President of International TV Production at NBC Universal where I have overseen numerous productions including the worldwide hit DOWNTON ABBEY, which has garnered BAFTA, Golden Globe and SAG Awards. Prior to that, I was a Golden Globe and Emmy Award winning television producer of DESPERATE HOUSEWIVES, along with DEFYING GRAVITY and THREAT MATRIX.

I travel extensively for my position, and as such, I am particularly discerning of the quality of the establishments I visit and the professionals I meet at them. I first met Mr. Edgar Vaudeville at Le Bristol Paris, arguably the most luxurious hotel in the entire city, during the fashion week, where Mr. Vaudeville was working as a PR and Events Director for Le Bar du Bristol. During my time at the hotel, Mr Vaudeville took incredible care of us and was completely dedicated to me and my team's experience. Mr. Vaudeville is the type of PR professional who not only oversees every minutia of an extravagant event, but also remembers everyone's name, the drink they prefer and all of the other often overlooked details that make guests feel special and welcomed.

Edgar Vaudeville always gave us an impressive show with his impeccable manners and professionalism, and he inputs this charisma in his team and employees like a true leader. It is rare to see professionals with his amount of passion in their work and his enthusiasm is evident in everything he and his team does. Indeed, I will miss his presence at the Bristol in Paris, but I will definitely frequent his new location in New York, as prestige and elegance follow Mr. Vaudeville wherever he goes. I expect him to organize marvelous events in the United States and I will make sure I can attend those to come at Le Colonial whenever I'm in New York City.

Having seen public relations professionals around the world, I can easily state that Mr. Vaudeville is an extremely unique talent in the luxury hospitality industry.

Yours sincerely,

Michael Edelstein
